

GOOD for you.

When I was 19 and in college,

my liver was destroyed by a rare condition known as Wilson's disease. The disease went undetected for so long that by the time I started to recognize symptoms, it was almost too late. With chances of survival not in my favor, I went right to the top of the transplant list. My first transplant was not a perfect match, but critical as my body was shutting down. I had a second transplant four days later. Because two strangers made the decision to donate life, I was able to finish college with honors, go on to lead an active life, marry a wonderful man and start a successful consulting business. I have a truly blessed life. I will forever be grateful to both my donors and their families, as I continue to be overwhelmed by their generosity.

Organ, eye and tissue donation saves lives. Please make your decision to donate life, and then tell your family!

The Global Organization for Organ Donation, GOOD, is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to raising public awareness for organ, eye and tissue donation.
